Foreword

Australian Commodity Statistics is an invaluable reference book for anyone associated with Australia's agricultural and resources industries. It is a comprehensive publication, containing overview and macroeconomic information as well as key statistics on the supply of and demand for each commodity covered. Current data are presented alongside historical data, with some historical series extending for over forty years.

In Australian Commodity Statistics, ABARE aims for continuity from year to year. This makes it possible for users to monitor industry developments over time. To ensure that the most relevant package of statistics is provided, the tables are scrutinised each year with some changes made and new tables added.

Australian Commodity Statistics can be used in conjunction with ABARE's Australian Commodities, in which the most important statistics, including forecasts, are updated throughout the year. Both of these publications provide background material for ABARE's national OUTLOOK conference to be held in Canberra in February–March 2001 and at which medium term outlook assessments will be presented for each of the major commodity based industries and the manufacturing and services sector.

Other ABARE publications that contain mainly statistical information on commodities and as such complement the data presented in Australian Commodity Statistics, are Australian Mineral Statistics (quarterly), Australian Forest Products Statistics (quarterly) and Australian Fisheries Statistics (annual).

a Obtained by deflating the net value of farm production by the consumer price index. b ABARE revised the method for calculating farm, price and production indexes in October 1999. The indexes for the different groups of farm commodities are now calculated on a chained weight basis using Fishers' ideal index with a reference year of 1997-98 = 100. c Ratio of index of prices received by farmers to index of prices paid by farmers.

Note: ABARE revised the method for calculating these indexes in October 1999. The indexes for commodity groups are now calculated on a chained weight basis using Fishers' ideal index with a reference year of 1997-98 = 100. Indexes for most individual commodities are based on annual gross unit value of production.

a From 1992-93, the classification of census units is based on the 1993 edition of the Australian and New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification (ANZSIC). Before 1992-93, classification of census units was based on the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (ASIC); ANZSIC has replaced the following editions of ASIC: the 1983 edition (used since the 1982-83 census), the 1978 edition (used since the 1977-78 census) and the 1969 edition (used since the 1968-69 census). b Includes working proprietors. c Excludes amounts drawn by working proprietors. d Data for 1973-74 to 1987-88 and 1989-90 cover ASIC subdivisions 11–15; data for 1988-89, 1990-91 and 1991-92 cover ASIC subdivisions 11–14; data for 1992-93 cover ANZSIC subdivisions 11–14 (equivalent to ASIC subdivisions 11–15); and data for 1993-94 and 1994-95 cover ANZSIC subdivisions 11–13 (equivalent to ASIC subdivisions 11–14). Data from 1996-97 based on ABS mining collection, equivalent to ANZSIC subdivisions 11–13.

a Gross value is ex mine. Before 1988-89, data compiled by the former Bureau of Mineral Resources on a calendar year basis; for 1988-89 and 1989-90, data compiled by ABARE on a financial year basis; and from 1990-91, data compiled by ABS from annual Mining Census data. Data for 1954 to 1989-90 cover ASIC subdivisions 11–15; data for 1990-91 and 1991-92 cover ASIC subdivisions 11–14; data for 1992-93 cover ANZSIC subdivisions 11–14 (equivalent to ASIC subdivisions 11–15); and data for 1993-94 and 1994-95 cover ANZSIC subdivisons 11–13 (equivalent to ASIC subdivisions 11–14). Data from 1996-97 based on ABS mining collection, (equivalent to ANZSIC subdivisions 11–13). b Includes items excluded from state totals for confidentiality reasons. c Excludes bauxite, limestone and talc. d Excludes limestone and salt. e Excludes iron oxide, molybdenum, and tin–copper concentrate. f Excludes clay, dolomite, limestone, peat and silica. g Excludes salt and silica for Victoria and clay, dolomite, limestone, peat and silica for Tasmania. h Excludes salt and silica for Victoria. i ABS confidentiality provisions apply; data not available for publication. na Not available.

a Crop years are November–October for barley, oats and triticale, and April–March for sorghum and maize. b Figures in parentheses are exports of malt in barley equivalents. Exports may include carryover from earlier harvests. c Estimated using the following seeding rates for grain crops: sorghum 5 kg/ha; barley 45 kg/ha; maize 15 kg/ha; oats 48 kg/ha; triticale 50 kg/ha. d Seed carryover for the following year's crop. e Malt use is expressed as barley equivalent = malt x 1.2. Approximately 1000 tonnes of pearled cooking barley is also included annually. p Preliminary.

Note: ABARE revised the method for calculating these indexes in October 1999. The indexes for the different groups of farm cost items are now calculated on a chained weight basis using Fishers' ideal index with a reference year of 1997-98 = 100.

a This table is based largely on data from the Reserve Bank of Australia and contains some modifications to table 87, Australian Commodity Statistics 1997, as a result of changes to data collection by the bank. The farm sector is defined as enterprises covered by ANZSIC (1994) agricultural categories 011–021. b Credit outstanding in June of year indicated. c Derived from all banks lending to agriculture, fishing and forestry less the fishing and forestry component, which is estimated to be around 6 per cent of that total in 1997. d Includes the government agency business of state banks and advances made under War Service Land Settlement. Before 1996, includes loans from the Queensland Industry Development Corporation. From 1996, these loans are included in bank lending. e Includes loans from life insurance companies, lease agreements and indebtedness to hire purchase companies, trade creditors, private lenders and small financial institutions. s ABARE estimate. na Not available a Includes bugs for Queensland. b Excludes tuna. c Excludes total Australian quantities because not all products are measured in kt, for example, pearls. Value includes all fisheries products. d Live weight. e Excludes production in Victoria and Queensland. f Includes an estimate of tuna production from joint venture agreements. Excludes Commonwealth southern bluefin tuna as an input to South Australian farms. g Excludes the value of Queensland production. h Includes pearls and other products. p Preliminary. s ABARE estimate; the values of production are based on values to fishing operators (ABS estimates of gross value of production include certain marketing costs in some cases).

a Native forest area data is sourced from the 1997 National Forest Inventory (NFI) which uses new definitions for forest cover. Hence the data are not comparable with previous years. The next NFI update of native forest areas will be in 2001. b Closed forest refers to areas with trees over 2 metres tall and with a canopy cover greater than 80 per cent. c Open forest refers to areas with trees over 2 metres tall and with a canopy cover between 50 and 80 per cent. d Woodland forest refers to areas with trees over 2 metres tall and with a canopy of cover of between 20 and 50 per cent. e At 31 March. f 1997-98 areas at 30 September 1998. g 1998-99 areas as at 30 September 1999. na Not available.

Note: The gross value of production is the value placed on recorded production at the wholesale prices realised in the market place. The point of measurement can vary between commodities. Generally the market place is the metropolitan market in each state and territory. However, where commodities are consumed locally or where they become raw material for a secondary industry, these points are presumed to be the market place. Prices used in these calculations do not include the GST.

a Based on rice industry figures calculated on a crop year basis. For example, the 1985-86 data are for the Queensland summer crop harvested from December 1985, the New South Wales crop harvested from April 1986, and the Queensland winter crop harvested from June 1986. b Paddy. c Unit gross value of production. d Based on ABS data; April–March marketing year basis; generally exports of the crop harvested in the previous year – that is, 1998-99 exports are sourced from the 1997-98 crop harvest. e Milled. f Unit gross value of exports. Between 1952-53 and 1987-88, calculated from financial year total export values. From 1988-89, calculated from marketing year (April–March) total export values. g Table rice only. Excludes rice used for feed, breakfast cereals and rice used for other purposes; includes imports. Financial year basis. p Preliminary.

a Raw sugar equivalent, September–August years. b Regarded as twelve countries until 1 January 1995, then fifteen countries. c Totals for exports and imports may not be equal as a result of losses in transit, sugar being at sea at the end of each year, and discrepancies in the official statistics of individual countries. p Preliminary.

a Average of daily asking prices for Australian standard white wheat fob eastern states for the relevant financial year. b The guaranteed minimum price replaced the stabilisation price in 1979-80. For the seasons 1984-85 to 1988-89, a preliminary guaranteed minimum price was set around September, and a final guaranteed minimum price was set in late February. From the 1989-90 season, the preliminary and final guaranteed minimum prices have been replaced by the AWB Limited cumulative postharvest payments. c Administered pricing of domestic wheat ceased after the 1988-89 season. d Sydney cash price, ASW (July–June average). p Preliminary. na Not available.

a Australian standard white wheat pool payment is based on a season 1 December to 30 November until 1981-82 and 1 October to 30 September from 1982-83, and can also include shipments made after the season ends. b Initial payment and amount distributed to growers are subject to the deduction of individual growers' freight, wheat research tax and, since 1978-79, state storage and handling charges. From 1984-85 to 1988-89, 90 per cent of the guaranteed minimum price was paid on delivery and the remaining 10 per cent was paid after 1 March. Commencing with the 1989-90 season, these payments have been replaced by the AWB Limited cumulative postharvest payments and the total pool payment or estimated pool payment. c From 1986-87, includes charges specified separately from bulk handling authority charges, such as wharfage, two port loading and carryover charges. d Before 1989-90, specified as a unit per tonne deduction, including Ceres House deductions. For 1989-90, calculated as 0.77 per cent of farmgate returns (average net return to growers less transport from farm to silo). From 1990-91, calculated as 1.0 per cent of farmgate returns. e Includes refunds of finance fund deductions from 1979-80 to 1983-84; excludes payments to the Wheat Industry Fund from 1989-90. p Preliminary. na Not available.

a Before 1980-81, net production referred to raw coal production less rejects removed at coal industry washeries plus/less unexplained stock adjustments at mines and ports. From 1980-81, net production refers to raw coal production less rejects removed at coal industry washeries plus/less unexplained stock adjustments at mines only. Thus, from 1980-81, net production is identical to salable production. b Calendar year basis before 1984-85.

a Total supply is defined as the flow of new mine output, and the net sale of aboveground stocks, while total demand is equal to net gold purchases. This classification of annual gold flows is symmetric, so that total annual supply equals total annual demand. b Average London AM fix price, expressed in US dollars. na Not applicable.

a Total metallic content of minerals produced. b Metal content. c Primary lead production (excludes scrap). d Quantities refer to the total metallic content of all ores and concentrates, intermediate products and refined metal; the value of lead contained in other mine and smelter products (for example, in zinc concentrates) is included in the value of the metal in which it is exported. e BHAS, 99.97–99.99 per cent, fob/for Port Pirie.

a Export volumes for primary petroleum up to June 1977 are direct from ABS overseas trade reports. As a result of changes in ABS classifications from July 1977, other statistics are taken from Department of Resources and Energy and ABARE publications. b Before 1983 exports were principally semiprocessed and re-export feedstocks. c Includes ethane, methane and noncommercial natural gas. d 1 million tonnes (Mt) of LNG is approximately equal to 1.31 billion cubic metres (Gm^3) of gas; production began in 1989-90. p Preliminary. s ABARE estimate. na Not available.

a Metal content. b Excludes secondary (scrap) and zinc dust production. c Refined metal only. d Quantities refer to the total metallic content of all ores and concentrates, intermediate products and refined metal. The value of zinc contained in other mine and smelter products (for example, zinc in lead concentrates) is included in the value of the product in which it is exported. e EZ Industries, Prime Western, 98.5 per cent purity. Before 1968, Prime Western grade zinc at Cockle Creek. f Zinc export code classifications changed substantially between 1979 and 1980, creating a break in the continuity of the series.
