

Dear Technical Reference Panel members,

We all know this is wrong. We all know the right thing to do. Why do we let a few greedy people consume so much of our time and effort and commit animals to suffering for their own wallet. There is no reason this practice needs to continue except to make money, enough is enough, stop allowing greed to dictate our lives.

In addition to the cruelty, for which no reasonable person can condone, there is also the environmental factor. Why are we growing so much livestock and destroying our country and our environment so that others may slaughter live animals.

Stopping this practice has only benefits for all of Australia and a disadvantage for a very small group of people, many of whom are already wealthy enough. Though they may claim job losses for their workers however if this was really their concern they would already be treating their workers better and looking for alternatives to make a living.

Please, do the right thing.

Sincerely
