

Simon John Cameron

I am concerned that the current AWI board has a bias against supporting scientific genetic improvement of the national flock. It appears the current chairman has a vested interest in suppressing rigorous analysis of the current state of relative genetic merits of different ram sources and the application of science to breeding more productive sheep.